A new conference opponent

Tonight's game against WAC opponent Utah State marks the 21st different conference BU has faced since elevating to Division I in 2001-02. The Aggies departed the Big West Conference after winning the title last year.

Utah State represents tall task

Despite the lack of a national ranking, Utah State appears to have as many credentials as any BU opponent in recent years. The Aggies are unbeaten at home this season and have lost just nine times at home in the the last eight years (103-9). The team has been to the NCAA tournament four times in the last six years, with two NIT bids accounting for the off years. Utah State owns the fourth-highest win percentage of any Division I program since 2000 — behind only Duke, Gonzaga and Illinois, and has won 20 or more games in each of the last two seasons.

Bearcats hold only statistical edge at free throw line

Utah State has a significant advantage in nearly every statistical category, including a whopping 148-point difference in shooting percentage. But the Bearcats have been better at the free throw line — albeit by the slightest of margins.

Milne enjoys solid game in return to lineup

After missing seven games with a hernia injury, redshirt freshman Ian Milne returned to the lineup last night and produced nine points and four rebounds in 25 minutes. Milne dropped in two rainbow three-pointers and grabbed a key rebound in the closing minutes to help thwart any Idaho State comeback. He added a block and a steal.

Olomo strong on glass in first collegiate start

Sophomore forward Giovanni Olomo was solid in his first collegiate start last night, pulling down a team- and career-high 12 rebounds — 10 of which came in the first half. Olomo had five offensive caroms and added four points and a steal in 26 minutes.

Jackson returns to home state

Senior guard Schafer Jackson returns to his home state this week for a marquee event in front of family and friends. Head coach Al Walker annually rewards his seniors with games in their home states, and the Provo-born Jackson will reap the benefits this year. Jackson starred at Provo High School (all-state) before playing at Dixie State and College of Southern Idaho in his first two collegiate seasons. After completing an LDS mission, Jackson came to Binghamton and is finishing his collegiate career with the Bearcats. He scored a career-high 26 points against UMBC last February 16. Jackson drained a three-pointer in the first half last night and added two rebounds in 12 minutes.

3 H's continue to shine: Heard, Hailey and Hermenier

Senior guard Andre Heard, junior guard Troy Hailey and senior forward Sebastian Hermenier have have continued to lead the team on the offensive end. Heard is averaging 20.0 points in his last five games, Hailey has hit for double-figures in six of seven, and Hermenier has been a workhorse near the hoop. He just missed a double-double last night with 10 points and nine rebounds, and also drew three charges on the defensive end. For the season, Hermenier has drawn 15 charges. Tonight's game will be Hermenier's 100th career game at Binghamton.

BU playing in second-ever in-season championship game

Since elevating to Division I in 2001-02, BU has participated in six in-season tournaments and is 5-7 overall. The 2002-03 team advanced to the championship game of the Iowa State Challenge after defeating Denver in the opening round. The Cyclones toppled BU 86-56 for the title.

Al Walker

Head Coach

Heading into his sixth year at the helm of Binghamton's most visible sports team, Al Walker has quickly shaped his basketball program into a conference-contender while also shaping his student-athletes into community role models and well-rounded young men.

A passionate coach entering his 18th year overall, Walker has quickly transformed the Bearcats into one of the sturdiest programs in the America East Conference. After surpassing preseason expectations three straight years, his 2004-05 team earned the program's first Division I postseason victory last March, thrilling a sellout crowd of 5,222 with an inspired win over Albany in the conference quarterfinals.

Walker's commitment to recruiting talented individuals with solid character and citizenship has drawn the support of the campus and Greater Binghamton community, which have come out in record numbers to watch the Bearcats.

"It's so important that our guys are good people, work hard and recognize how special this opportunity is at Binghamton," Walker said. "We have a chance to bring pride and joy to our community."

Back in 2000 when the University hired Walker to steer its men's basketball team into the rough waters of Division I, the school was banking on Walker's reputation for building programs from the ground up. At the same time, the administration hoped the divisional move would enhance the University's national reputation.

Thanks to aggressive recruiting and an even more aggressive team defense, Walker has made quick work of those goals.

Another constant in Walker's program has been the tradition of scheduling high-caliber opponents. In his first five years,

Walker has brought BU into battle against such nationally prominent programs as Syracuse, Kansas, North Carolina, Michigan,

Iowa State, Providence and Villanova. His team's performance against the Tar Heels in Chapel Hill on December 16, 2001, resulted in a flurry of national praise. Four days after UNC had to rally for a 61-60 win, Walker's photo graced the pages of USA Today above the headline "Binghamton makes its name."

Walker believes in rewarding his out-of-state players with a high-profile game back home, and thus has brought his team up against teams from the Big East, Big 12 and ACC in recent years. This season is no exception, as the Bearcats will travel to the Sooner state to play perennial NCAA team Oklahoma University and also play in the Utah State Holiday Classic for the benefit of seniors Andre Heard and Schafer Jackson, respectively.

Walker was introduced at a press conference on March 16, 2000. A unanimous selection among the University's advisory committee, Walker became the 10th coach in Binghamton's 55 years of basketball — and the first with Division I coaching experience.

"Al Walker had the breadth of experience we were looking for," said Joel Thirer, director of health, physical education and athletics. "He has coached at the Division I level, and has recruited and taught student-athletes that fit our University's elite academic profile. Al is well respected across the country, and we are confident he will build our program the same way he has done in the past."

Building a Winner

Under the tutelage of sixth-year head coach Al Walker, the Binghamton University men's basketball program is embarking on a meteoric rise in the ranks of Division I basketball in the America East Conference. All eyes have quickly been drawn to the Bearcats, who surpassed expectations in each of their first three years and are now poised to challenge for the conference championship. With aggressive marketing, administrative support and a fan base that is unmatched in the nine-team league, Binghamton has quickly emerged as the program of the future.

Playing in a Palace

From the inaugural game at the Events Center in January 2004 to the highly-successful 2005 America East Championship, fans have flocked to the $33.1 million state-of-the-art basketball arena to cheer on the Bearcats. Binghamton has led the entire conference in home attendance in each of the last two seasons.

Hosting the Conference Championship again

On the heels of its successful host role for the 2005 America East Men's Basketball Championship, Binghamton was promptly awarded the 2006 championship and will welcome the conference and its fan base to campus on March 3-5.

Last March, Binghamton hosted the first three rounds of the championship and drew 15,977 fans - more than double the attendance from the 2004 event. The quarterfinal session attendance of 8,284 on March 5 was the third-highest figure in conference tournament history.

Buoyed by the big home crowds, BU defeated fourth-seeded Albany in the quarterfinals in front of 5,222 fans and then brilliantly battled eventual champion Vermont before falling in the semifinals.

Maximum Exposure

The Bearcats have already gained regional and national exposure - thanks to marquis players, strong scheduling and broadcast exposure. Binghamton has increased its national profile with an appearance in the preseason NIT and recent games against NCAA powers Syracuse, Kansas, Villanova and North Carolina. The Bearcats will travel across the country to face elite programs again in 2005-06. A matchup with perennial NCAA tournament team Oklahoma and a holiday tournament at 2005 NCAA tournament team Utah State highlight the schedule.

Binghamton has been equally aggressive in the media market, where the school secured a conference-best four televised games in 2004-05, in addition to offering all 29 home and away games on live radio that was streamed on the internet.

Role Models

Binghamton basketball coaches and players reach out to the community throughout the year. The team hosts free clinics, visits community schools and makes young children an integral part of every game night. Through their athletic and academic achievement, sportsmanship and community service, the Bearcats are positive role models for kids of all ages.

The Place to Be

With four starters back, a highly-touted recruiting class on its way, a jammed Events Center atmosphere on campus, and the conference tournament returning to town, clearly the best is yet to come in 2005-06.
