The State University of New York (SUNY), a unique public university with 64 distinctly individual campuses, is the nation's largest centrally managed system of public higher education.

Founded in 1948, the State University includes four university centers (Binghamton among them), 13 colleges of arts and science, seven specialized colleges, five centers for the health sciences, eight colleges of technology and 30 community colleges. The University's motto is: "To Learn, To Search, To Serve."

The State University is governed by a board of trustees, appointed by the governor. Community colleges have their own local boards of trustees whose relationship to the SUNY board is defined by law.

2. Any student in an institution of higher education who is unable, because of his or her religious beliefs, to attend classes on a particular day or days shall, because of such absence on the particular day or days, be excused from any examination or any study or work requirements.

3. It shall be the responsibility of the faculty and of the administrative officials of each institution of higher education to make available to each student who is absent from school, because of his or her religious beliefs, an equivalent opportunity to register for classes or make up any examination, study or work requirements which he or she may have missed because of such absence on any particular day or days. No fees of any kind shall be charged by the institution for making available to the said student such equivalent opportunity.

5. In effectuating the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of the faculty and of the administrative officials of each institution of higher education to exercise the fullest measure of good faith.
