Question Types

There are many different types of questions available. Some types are appropriate for surveys and some aren’t.

Choose the type of question that you want by dropping down the Create Questions menu and clicking on your choice.

Most of the question types offered are self explanatory however, some aren’t. I’ve explained some of them in the following pages.
Hot Spot Questions:
Allow you to upload an image to denote a section of that image as the answer. The students have to click within the box to get the answer correct.

Quiz Bowl Questions
Quiz Bowl questions are as if you were playing the game show Jeopardy. You actually give the answer and then the student needs to provide the question.

You are given a choice of interrogatives that should be in the students’ answers and you can choose how many different answer phrases the students may come up with.
Here I chose two interrogatives and two answer phrases.

Reuse Questions

Find from Pool or Test

When adding questions to your test you also have the option to get questions from other tests or pools.

First choose where you want to get the questions from.
Set your Point Value for the question and then click Search.
On this page place a check in front of the questions that you want to bring into this test and then click the “Add Selected” button.

Your questions have now been added to your Test Canvas and if you need to Edit them click on the double arrow button to drop down the menu and choose Edit. You can change the Point Value here if needed.

NOTE: If you want to select all of the questions that came up then click on this check box to quickly select all of the question.
Create Random Block

How it works: For example, you have a Pool with 40 True/False questions. You want to put 5 True/False questions on the test you are creating. When you create a Random Block of 5 questions it is going to pull 5 random questions from the pool of 40 for each student. Meaning each student will have 5 different True/False questions on their test for this block of questions.

Random Block works with the Pool Manager. When you choose Random Block it shows a list of question pools that you have set up in the Pool Manager.

Step 1: Click on the Pool that contains the questions that you want to use.

Step 2: Choose the types of questions that you want in the block.
Now on our Test Canvas we have this 'Create Random Block'. It looks like only one question on the test but it is actually three.

Designate how many questions you want in this block and assign a point value to them.

Click Import when you are done.
