FOREWORD

This year's annual student exhibition marks a departure from those of the past. The studio faculty felt that this year's exhibit should emphasize a body of selected work developed by senior studio majors.

This decision was based on a two-fold point of view; 1) that in approximately one decade the studio section of the department has grown steadily in its curriculum, faculty and number of majors 2) that it is time to emphasize a body of selected work to show the personal approaches to one's work that the students have developed over a period of time. This can be realized in part by exhibiting a body of individual student's work in a group show.

It is hoped that, in the future with a new facility, we can exhibit a broader coverage of one senior's work and/or work produced from one discipline.

Also included in this year's exhibition as usual, but with less emphasis, are pieces done by studio majors who are not seniors and some by non-studio majors.
