Student Show '84

It is pleased to announce the Student Show '84, a special exhibition of student work. The show is organized by the Department of Art and Art History, and is held in the First Floor, Gallery 1, located at Paul Hall. The show is open to all students, and is a wonderful opportunity to see the work of our students. The show is also a great opportunity for students to see the work of other students, and to see the work of the Department of Art and Art History. The Annual Art Student Exhibition for 1984 comes at the end of my 20th year at the University Center at Binghamton. These events bring out, rather strongly, two important factors: one, the production and quality of work contained in these student annuals has been consistently high and even. Second, even though a bit older now, I never cease to be excited and stimulated by the student energy and intelligence year in and year out. From my own experience in teaching sculpture for 20 years, there is this list of former students that have become personal friends over the years with whom I still maintain a correspondence contact. These students always ask, "What is happening there now?" "What are the new students doing?" "Are they good?" I find myself responding positively to their questions and now I can relate the fact that we will be offering a BFA degree in Studio Art and that we are getting new studio facilities. Again, I find myself very pleased with the work produced which has to mean that there is still a high level of exchange between student and faculty.

This year, as in years past, the Studio faculty has convened to select a recipient for the SUNY-Binghamton Foundation Award for Creative Work in the Fine Arts. This year's recipient is Paul Hill, a graduating senior in painting. The Studio faculty also selected graduating students for departmental honors. This year's recipients for Highest Honors from the Department of Art and Art History are:

James L. Cohen
Paul Hill
Jocelyn Lui
Simone Summers

I want to thank the students and faculty for bringing about another productive and enjoyable year.
