The Center for Medieval & Renaissance Studies, Binghamton University

presents

The Annual CEMERS Workshop Lecture Series
and Calendar of Events - Fall 2009

Wednesday, September 16, 12:00 Noon, LN-1128
Sharon A. Kinoshita, Professor of Literature, University of California, Santa Cruz
“How to Do Things in the Medieval Mediterranean.”

Wednesday, September 30, 12:00 Noon, LN-1128
Kathleen Biddick, Professor of History, Temple University
“Dead Neighbors: The Enemy’s Two Bodies.”

Wednesday, October 7, 4:00 pm, LN1106
David Wallace, Judith Rodin Professor, Department of English, University of Pennsylvania
“Literary Locations: Where Europe Begins and Ends, 1348-1418.”

Wednesday, October 21, 12:00 Noon, LN-1128
Karla Mallette, Associate Professor of Italian, University of Michigan
“Lingua franca in the Mediterranean.”

Wednesday, October 28, 12:00 Noon, LN-1128
Emily Reiner, Adjunct Lecturer of Medieval Studies, Binghamton University
“‘Why Don’t You All Fade Away?’ Redundant Greeks in the Western Medieval Imagination.”

Bernardo Lecture
Thursday, November 12, 5:30 PM, Anderson Center Reception Room
Albert Russell Ascoli, Gladys Arata Terrill Distinguished Professor, Department of Italian Studies,
University of California, Berkeley
“‘Favola fui’: Petrarch Writes his Readers.”

Wednesday, November 18, 12:00 Noon, LN-1128
Cynthia Robinson, Assistant Professor of Art History, Cornell University
“Birds, Thrones and Blinding Light: ‘Misticismos Encontrados’ Between the Nasrid Sultanate of Granada and the Christian Kingdom of Castile.”

Co-sponsored Interdisciplinary Workshop
Friday & Saturday, November 20-21, Binghamton University Downtown Campus
“Eurasian Influences on Yuan China (1260-1367).”
Organized by the Department of Asian & Asian American Studies

CEMERS, an interdisciplinary research unit established in 1966, promotes innovative research and scholarly exchange in medieval, Renaissance, and early modern studies.

Co-sponsors for the series include the Harpur College Speakers Fund, the Departments of English, History and Romance Languages, and the Fernando Braudel Center.

For additional information, please visit our website at cemers.binghamton.edu. For directions to campus, please visit the Binghamton University website (http://www.binghamton.edu/home/about/visit.html).

Email: cemers@binghamton.edu