

The deadline for independent is after the add/drop deadline each semester. The date varies depending on the number of credits.

For example, the deadline for one credit independent study for spring would be in mid April if the course add/drop deadline was near the beginning of February, two credits would be mid March and three credits would be mid February. The exact dates are determined by the Registrar's office and are usually shared with department each semester after the course add/drop deadline.

An example of fall Independent Study deadlines, if the course add/drop deadline is near the beginning of September, the one credit Independent Study deadline is about the third week of November, two credits, near the end of October and three credits near the end of September.

If you need a specific date, please contact our department after the course add/drop deadline.
