| Current Catalog Description of Registered Program | | |
| The Master of Science in Student Affairs Administration (MS SAA) degree program at Binghamton University prepares graduates for entry- to mid-level management positions in two- and four-year institutions of higher education. The MS SAA program is ideally suited for those who wish to pursue positions including academic advising, admissions and enrollment management, career development and placement, financial aid, health services, judicial affairs, leadership development, multicultural affairs, non-traditional and commuter student services, residential life, services for students with disabilities, student activities, and student development and involvement. Graduates of the MS SAA program may also acquire skills that are desirable in organizations outside of academia. The curriculum for the MS SAA degree program was designed to meet the American College Personnel Association (ACPA) Professional Preparation Commission Standards and the Council for the Advancement of Standards in Higher Education (CAS) Standards for Master's Level Student Affairs Professional Preparation Programs. The MS SAA degree program is grounded in both student development theory and the concept of theory-to-practice-to-theory. Thus, an underlying goal of the program is to prepare professionals who have working knowledge of how student development theory is used in practice and how practice serves to inform future theory development. Graduates will be comfortable discussing research relevant to their selected areas of work within student affairs and feel qualified to contribute to knowledge production at a level appropriate to their experience. A secondary goal of the program is to prepare administrative leaders and personnel who are comfortable working with people of diverse backgrounds in positions that require decision-makers to respond to department/unit situations while taking into consideration how their decisions impact other systems (i.e., departments and/or divisions) within the institution. The MS SAA degree program, coupled with sufficient professional experience, may also serve as the foundation and entry point for persons desiring careers as deans of students and assistant vice presidents for student affairs. | | |
| 3. Proposed Program Registration Information | | |
| Proposed Program Title | | |
| Higher Education and Student Affairs | | |

|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Rationale for Proposed Title (i.e., demonstrate alignment between proposed title and program course content) | |
| The proposed title more accurately reflects our field today as the line between what is and what is not student affairs becomes increasingly blurred. Even the CAS Standards for professional preparation in our field has changed its title from “Standards for Master’s Level Student Affairs Professional Preparation Programs” to “Standards for Master’s Level Higher Education and Student Affairs Professional Preparation Programs.” The title change also should make the program easier for prospective students to find. Many of our courses (core and elective) contain both higher education and student affairs content. Notably, two of our core courses are: SAA 513: Organization and Administration of Higher Education and SAA 514: Law of Higher Education. | |
| Proposed Catalog Description | |
| The Master of Science in Higher Education and Student Affairs (MS HESA) degree program at Binghamton University prepares graduates for entry- to mid-level management positions in two- and four-year institutions of higher education. The MS HESA program is ideally suited for those who wish to pursue positions within higher education including academic advising, admissions and enrollment management, assessment, career development and placement, student conduct, leadership development, multicultural affairs/Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, residential life, services for students with disabilities, student activities and involvement, student success, and new student programs. The curriculum for the MS HESA degree program was designed to meet the Council for the Advancement of Standards in Higher Education (CAS) Standards for Master’s Level Higher Education and Student Affairs Professional Preparation Programs. The MS HESA degree program is grounded in both student development theory and the concept of theory-to-practice-to-theory. Thus, an underlying goal of the program is to prepare professionals who have working knowledge of how student development theory is used in practice and how practice serves to inform future theory development. Graduates will be comfortable discussing research relevant to their selected areas of work within student affairs and feel qualified to contribute to knowledge production at a level appropriate to their experience. In addition, a goal of the program is to prepare administrative leaders and professional staff who are comfortable working with people of diverse backgrounds in positions that require decision-makers to respond to department/unit situations while taking into consideration how their decisions impact other systems (i.e., departments and/or divisions) within the institution. The MS HESA degree program, coupled with sufficient professional experience, may also serve as the foundation and entry point for persons desiring careers as deans of students and assistant vice presidents for student affairs. | |

| Currently enrolled students must be able to complete the program under the title that was in effect when they first enrolled. SED will create a ‘placeholder’ program with its own SED code under the old title which will be that is discontinued when the last currently enrolled student graduates. The revised title applies only to new students entering after the revision has been registered. | Need a placeholder?
