

Here we show a series of photographs of the electron beam imaged on a ZnS screen. We have observed a stable beam for over 16 hours under stable pressure conditions. Here, the pressure is slowly changing from below 1 mtorr to ~8 mtorr at which time the beam blow up with a discharge of electrons into the ZnS screen.

