Hello, School of the Arts!

As our semester comes to a close, here's a look back at our incredible fall.

In addition to the exciting programming from Art & Design, Art History, Cinema, Music, Theatre, Creative Writing, Anderson Center, and the Binghamton University Art Museum (please subscribe to our School of the Arts Calendar to help keep on top of our wide-ranging programming) we had a number of School of the Arts initiatives:

- "Tips for the Real World" Panel Series: On November 11, we bolstered our presence at Harpur Week with Colin Lyons (Art & Design) and Julia Walker (Art History) sharing insights on professional development with our students.
- Open House Tours: We hosted weekend tours of our building in October and November, showcasing the School of the Arts to prospective students and families.
- Homecoming Spotlight: At "Excelebration," we left a lasting impression on donors and community partners with jazz, opera, musical theatre performances, an art exhibition, and live screen printing.
- Admissions Updates: We launched new portfolio and audition pathways for BFA and BMUS programs, and are currently working towards enhanced software and recruitment tools to connect with even more talented students in the future.

- Community Connections: Our presence at the LUMA Festival and Broome County Arts Trail highlighted the creativity of our students and faculty.
- Curricular Growth: Exciting developments include progress on programs in New Media, Sound, Lighting, and an interdisciplinary BA in the Arts.
- Shoutout to the Student Media Team: Special thanks to Nicky Radford and Fiorella Wells Alania for their outstanding work helping photograph our events and to Stella Hung for her work on our Instagram page!
