Student art exhibition at Homecoming weekend 'Excelebration' event

Happy fall, School of the Arts!

We had a dynamic start to fall semester 2024, with a variety of activities bringing even more visibility to our programs.

We began with the launch of new admissions initiatives, allowing direct entry into our BFA and BMUS programs through audition and portfolio reviews, and paving the way for new software and recruiting support for our faculty and staff. We will soon be reaching out with some special contact cards that faculty and staff can use to help connect with great students and colleagues!

With local community, our participation in the LUMA Festival highlighted student and faculty work, and our high visibility in the Broome County Arts Trail provided another opportunity for local engagement and appreciation of our school and talents.

Homecoming last weekend was a special moment for the school. We had a prominent position in "Excelebration," a special event for donors, board members, and community partners. Jazz, opera and musical theatre performances, an exhibition, and screen printing during the event helped showcase the creativity and dedication of our students, faculty and staff. We truly stole the show – so many visitors stopped to watch and engage with our students throughout the event.

We're excited for next month's performances and exhibitions – please be sure to see the highlights below and check out our School of the Arts Calendar.

It's been a great start, with more to come!
