Binghamton University – Health Promotion & Prevention
Graduate Assistantship – Sexual Health and Interpersonal Violence Prevention (full-time)

The Health Promotion and Prevention Program works with campus and community partners to provide support and education using a public health model. The office provides peer education outreach, programming and personal student consultations on a wide variety of health promotion and education topics, i.e., sexual health, alcohol and other drugs, interpersonal violence prevention, stress management and personal self-care. The graduate assistant will work to help support the Health Promotion and Prevention Office mission to proactively meet the health promotion and prevention needs of students through outreach and self-care management initiatives.

Description of Duties

- Responsible for assisting in the planning and implementation of HPPS topics, especially sexual health and interpersonal violence prevention (IVP) events, campaigns and programming within the Binghamton University campus community (including Downtown, Johnson City, etc).
- Responsible for staying up to date on current related health information and programming techniques.
- Responsible for organizing and leading student committees to plan and implement events.
- Some evenings and weekends will be required; will be given advance notice.

Qualifications

- Must be accepted into a Binghamton University graduate program for the 2018-2019 academic year
- Bachelor’s degree required. Educational background in counseling, social work, psychology, human development, sociology, or health education preferred
- Experience in one or more of the following highly desired: non-profit, education/teaching, working with young adult populations or in higher education.
- Exceptional time management skills
- Significant public speaking experience
- Excellent interpersonal skills
- Cultural competency with diverse populations
- Able to communicate effectively both orally and in writing
- Ability to work well in groups and individually
- Adaptability and a willingness to assist in the building of new initiatives
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office products
- Leadership or teaching experience a plus
- Social media and visual marketing experience a plus

Stipend

This assistantship includes a base stipend for the academic year of $9,800, paid biweekly. This position is represented by the Graduate Student Employees Union (GSEU) and the stipend includes all potential union-negotiated raises applicable for the academic year. Twenty hours of work per week is expected. This position requires some night and weekend hours.

To Apply

Persons interested should submit the general application on the Student Affairs website. Questions related to this position should be directed to Dara Raboy at piccian@binghamton.edu.