Binghamton University – Health Promotion and Prevention Services
20:1 Interpersonal Violence Prevention and Bystander Intervention Assistantships

Two 20-hour assistantships available

The office of Health Promotion and Prevention Services is dedicated to promoting psychological well-being that enriches personal and academic growth. Health Promotion and Prevention is a newly formed office that provides education, outreach and prevention services to the students at Binghamton University addressing a wide variety of health education areas.

The graduate assistant works to support Health Promotion and Prevention Services goal to meet the goals of increasing prevention and bystander intervention effort in the area of interpersonal violence, including sexual assault, domestic violence, hate, bullying and hazing.

Description of Duties

The GA may aid the 20:1 Program in the following ways:

- Attend and co-teach the 20:1 weekly seminar
- Assist in the supervision of 20:1 interns, including providing midterm evaluations, overseeing intern journal entries and attending/observing prevention education presentations
- Present prevention education as requested
- Set up and organize presentations for 20:1 peer educators/undergraduate interns
- Maintain calendar of presentations and organize schedule of interns
- Organize other 20:1 events including tabling events and big awareness events such as the Clothesline Project
- Assist in the creation of new prevention education programs
- Assist in marketing/social media of programming efforts
- Assist in editing and updating current program scripts/PowerPoint
- Data collection and data report writing
- Keep 20:1 paper work, i.e. Google calendar, time sheets, orders for shirts etc.
- Help to recruit and interview new peer educators for the next year

Qualifications:

- Candidates must be accepted into a Binghamton University graduate program for the 2021-2022 academic year.
- Candidates must be a Masters level student in the field of social work, psychology, counseling, student affairs or related field.
- Candidates must have some knowledge of student mental health issues, sexual assault/sexual trauma issues, sexual consent, bystander behavior and/or a strong interest in learning more about these areas
- This person must have excellent communication skills, both verbal and written, and must be comfortable with public speaking
- Some programmatic experience on a collegiate level is desired
- Computer and organizational skills are a must
- Demonstrated leadership ability as well as the ability to work with diverse groups
Stipend

The assistantship includes a base stipend for the academic year of $10,200 paid biweekly. This position is represented by the Graduate Student Employees Union (GSEU) and the stipend includes all potential union-negotiated raises applicable for the academic year. Twenty hours of work per week is expected.

TO APPLY

Interested candidates who are currently Binghamton University undergraduate or graduate students should submit a resume, cover letter and contact information for three professional references through hireBING.

Candidates not currently enrolled at Binghamton University should submit a resume, cover letter and contact information for three professional references via email to Dara Raboy at piccian@binghamton.edu.